John G. Diefenbaker Indigenous Student Community

Funded through the Neighbourhood Grant – Truth & Reconciliation Stream

Ribbon Hoodie Workshop – Building Community Through Creativity

Students from local high schools gathered for a Ribbon Hoodie Workshop that began with a smudge and continued with collaborative design and encouragement. Shared meals and conversation strengthened connections, and participants proudly showcased their finished hoodies—symbols of culture, creativity, and community pride.

“The workshop sparked excitement, with many asking, ‘When is the next one?’ The hoodies are now worn with pride, becoming conversation starters and symbols of cultural learning and community spirit.” – Indigenous Student Graduation Coach

Impact Highlights:

- Belonging & Visibility – Students felt seen, valued, and connected within their schools and neighbourhood.
- Cultural Preservation – Honoured traditions and passed knowledge between generations.
- Community Building & Social Support – Shared meals, gatherings, and cultural activities encouraged conversation, bonding, and expanded community ties.
